

A Coil for a Magnet and a Method of Manufacture Thereof

Sub
B

Abstract

A magnet comprises an electrical conductor wound over a tubular former. The former is initially produced as a flat former, and it is bent into a tubular shape. The former is made of a resilient material to absorb vibrations of the electrical conductor.

60444-1